

About Persper-eez

It was while attending outdoor festivals and noticing perspiration stains on the front of women's clothing, that Diane Dandron realized the need for a product to provide relief from under breast sweat and the embarrassing stains caused by it. After consulting with health care practitioners and women of all ages, she developed and patented Persper-eez Breast Sweat Pads.

Born and raised in St. Paul, Minnesota, Diane worked for a semiconductor company for 30 years in various sales and management positions managing large multi-national accounts. There, she learned how to build long term customer relationships, and manage day to day activities and the product needs of her customers. Now she's thrilled to utilize these skills to support women's needs and causes.

With a heart for women of all ages, Diane is a member of Minnesota Chicks for Charity and the Care Options Network. She is also actively involved in both the Minneapolis and St. Paul chapters of the Senior Workers Association. Through her involvement in the aging services industry, Diane works with seniors, community workers, and industry professionals to promote health and wellness. In her spare time, she enjoys fishing, boating and sewing.
